

Little Diomedé Potential Storm Impacts

Coastal Flood Warning

IMPACTS:

- High water is currently being observed, and will slowly begin to descend through the week.
- Significant erosion is possible.

What to Expect:

Water levels: 4-5 feet above the normal highest tide line and slowly falling.

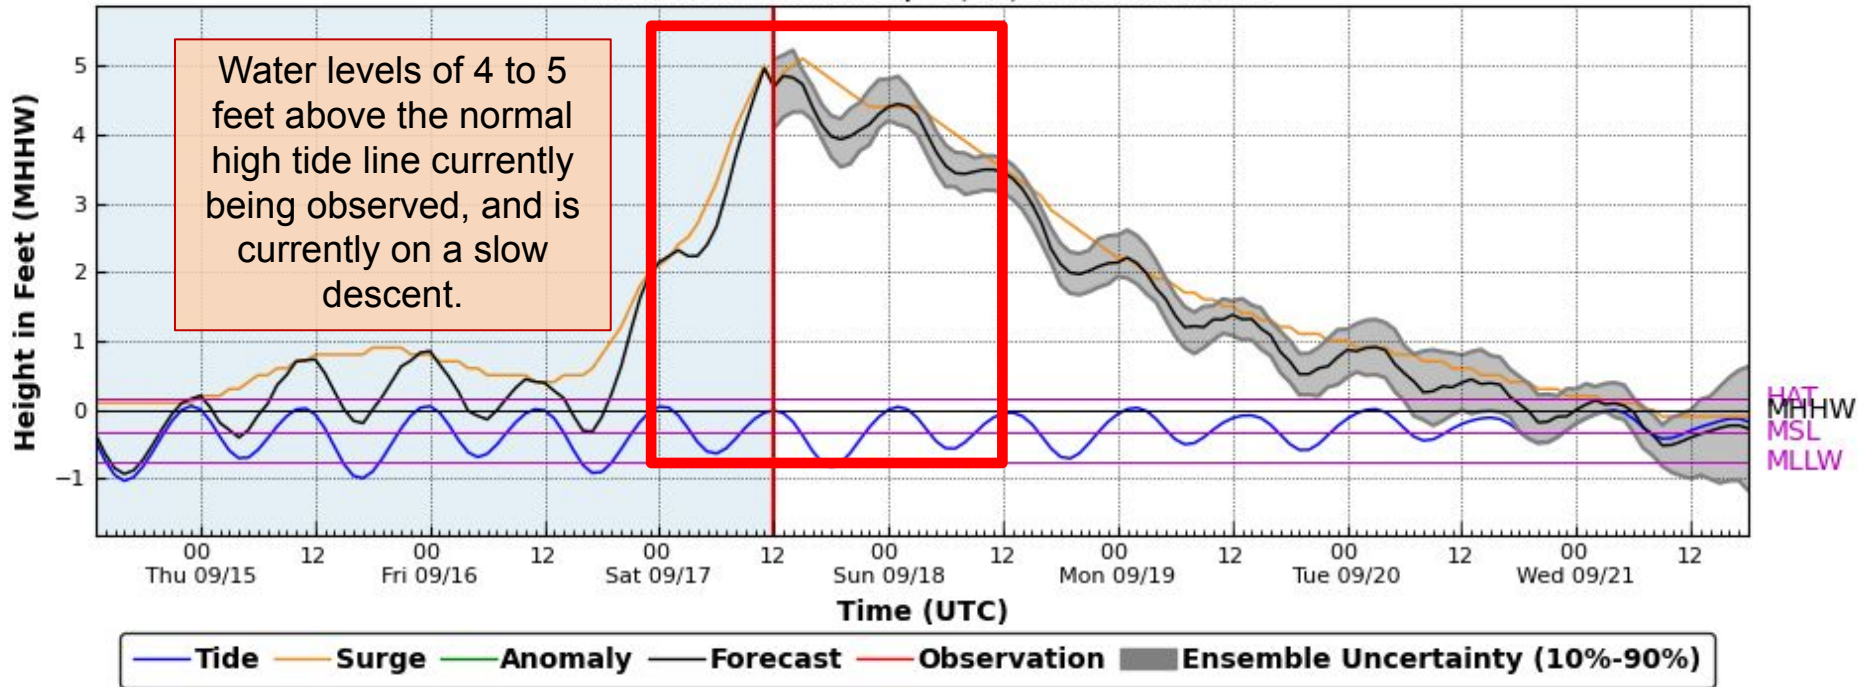

Timing: The highest water levels are currently being observed.

Winds: South winds 40 to 50 mph with gusts up to 65 mph possible.

Little Diomedede Potential Storm Impacts

Diomedede AK ber0023, 09/17/2022 18:05 UTC

Little Diomedede Potential Storm Impacts

See the NWS webpage for the latest forecasts
www.weather.gov/fairbanks

NATIONAL WEATHER SERVICE
NATIONAL OCEANIC AND ATMOSPHERIC ADMINISTRATION

Local forecast by
7:45u APT on 08/08/2012

Enter location: [GO]

Location help

News Headlines

- Fairbanks October 2012 Climate Summary
- Learn more about what the National Weather Service is and what we do to support you!
- Become a Weather-Ready Nation Ambassador!

NWS Forecast Office : Fairbanks, AK

Fairbanks, AK
Weather Forecast Office

Current Hazards | Current Conditions | Radar | Forecasts | Rivers and Lakes | Climate and Past Weather | Local Programs

Quick Zoom: Alaska Statewide | Southcentral | Fairbanks | Western | Central/Northern | Juneau/Southeast | [X] Disable Mouse Scroll

Land Hazards

- Warning
- Watch
- Advisory
- Special Wx

Marine Hazards

- Heavy Fog Spotty
- Heavy Fog
- Small Craft Advisory

Hover over a zone

Cities: [GO] [OFF] Legend: [GO] [OFF]

marine updated Thu 10/08 21:00
radar updated Thu 10/08 21:00

Alaska IV Weather Maps | Satellite (GOES) | Satellite (GOES) | Radar | Graphical Forecast | Graphical Forecast

Decision Support Page | Space Weather | Fire Weather | Marine | Submit a Report | Social Media

Storm and flooding observations can be submitted here. They will immediately alert a forecaster at our office in Fairbanks.

- Please contact National Weather Service 24/7 with any questions or observations:

- Phone: (907) 458-3708
- Email: fairbanks.weather@noaa.gov
- Please take photos or video of flooded areas. This will help improve our forecasts for your community.